“You are like a building, your task is to be honest with yourself and determine if the essential foundation of your personality and psyche is built on solid (spiritual) ground or on sand (human error).”

Carlton Joseph Young

I believe that Divine Power is expressed when human preparation meets spiritual opportunity! To error is human, but to be connected to Spirit is divine!

Many years ago when I first attended the IST course offered by T.I.C., my innate intuition was revealed to me through conscious contact with my “I Am self.” For many years to follow that innate intuition and contact would help me manage my life’s ups and downs more effectively.

Emotional and physical pain has been a common experience for me. From childhood, my body appeared physically limited which created fear and uncertainty. As an adult, I am challenged daily to walk steadily and strongly and keep my mind focused on the Truth.

The simple question occasionally posed to me is “What has the T.I. C. coursework done for you?” I have a simple answer, “The philosophy of this teaching has helped me deal with the pains of life!”

As the saying goes, “Let me count the ways!” When I am willing to properly apply the Spiritual Laws and Principles, I am benefited:

(1) My daily spiritual practice provides me with the preparation (faith) I need to focus on truth, the Divine Presence, no matter when or where the pains of life appear.

(2) As I attain a greater understanding of both my human nature (my will) as well as my spiritual nature (God’s will), I am peaceful and able to make positive decisions.

(3) Being willing to ask for and receive guidance from my “I Am Self”, especially when I am in physical/emotional pain moves me into solution.

Are you spiritually prepared to meet the challenges of life?
