*“Being individual expressions of the One Universal Life, we have one supreme need in living,
we need to express the life which we are.”*
– Being A Christ, Lesson 11, Part II

We create our life experiences! Every thought which we accept and speak either audibly or silently, is registered in our subconscious mind and unless denied it will likely manifest.

Before taking the T.I.C. Inner Sensitivity Training (IST) Course and reading the textbook, Being a Christ, I all too often had the experience of doubting myself, feeling blue, pushing to be accepted, worrying, and complaining. My life was one of “what was wrong” with me, with you, and with the world.

The IST course grounded in me my own sensitivity and opened my inner sensing awareness. I discovered new answers to old questions and new ways to develop my spiritual gifts. I became a lifelong student of the inner life of mystical awareness. As I learned to channel the loving guidance and inspiration from my “I Am” self, life became a joy instead of a burden.

A favorite song of mine is “Days Like This” by Van Morrison (singer-songwriter and multi-instrumentalist.) It focuses on the positive rather than the negative. With lyrics affirming, “There will be days like this”: “When it’s not always raining, no one complaining, everything falls into place like a flick of a switch, don’t need to worry, no one’s in a hurry, no one steps on my dreams, and all understand what I mean. Then I must remember there’ll be days like this.”

I encourage you to become involved, to enter fully and wholeheartedly into this life changing study. We all have choices. Our personal use of the Spiritual Law becomes the law of our being.

Love,
Rev. Vicki

“If you want sunshine, step out into the sunshine. If you have locked yourself away in a dark closet, why not come into the light...know that God is in everyone and meet the God in others...Realize you are born out of Life. You are one with everything because you are One with God.” 365 Science of Mind, Ernest Holmes
